The Company

Responsive Ltd is a group of specialist companies offering professional services including Non-Destructive Testing, Mechanical testing and Training. Responsive has built its success by looking after the people inside and those who live and work around our business. We care and we enjoy showing it. Integrity is at the heart of reliable testing and at the heart of our businesses too. We all believe in contributing to a safer world by doing our jobs well.

Responsive Training Services is the training arm of Responsive Ltd. We can tailor a solution for any training needs with "off the shelf" courses as well as bespoke courses. This could be within quality, life skills, health and safety - We really can try our best to cover anything but we take a specialism in what we know – Non-Destructive testing, PCN qualifications.

The Position

The main roles and responsibilities of a Non-Destructive Testing Instructor are as follows;

- Face-to-Face Contact with Students
- Remote tutor/instructor (working at different sites, where needed)
- Participate and moderate online discussions and forums
- Marking and Commenting on Student Assignments
- Student Progress monitoring
- Course Design and development
- NDT CPD activity
- Continual improvement of Teaching skills
- Reviewing Courses regularly for improvement

Other responsibilities are:

- To participate in the running of day, weekend sessions as and when necessary, and to provide feedback on these activities to the manager
- To contribute to the evaluation of courses when requested by the manager
- To attend and participate in tutor training sessions and other meetings as and when the company requires both before and during a course. All appointed tutors will have to attend the Tutor Induction and Training Programme.

We are looking for inspectors or tutors with at least a PCN Level 2 with 5 years' experience or more in any of the following disciplines; MT, PT, RT, UT, WI.
